

ESTONOESUNSOLAR - THISISNOTAPLOT

The project was initially launched as an employment scheme, in 2009, to clear run-down sites in the historic city centre of Zaragoza. After its initial success, it expanded in 2010 to cover the whole city. While the first phase contract ended in December 2011, four of the original regeneration plans are still running.

“ Estonoesunsolar has not only improved the physical environment, but has created a place for people of all ages to come together.

It's been a successful project. We've improved the quality of the city and its urban landscape while creating jobs for citizens.
